Welcome

Positioned on the north shores of the Gulf of Mexico and protected by an uninhabited barrier island, the calm waters and constant breezes of St. Andrews Bay have made Panama City the envy of recreational, competitive and commercial sailors since our founding in the early 1800s.

Still today, as you stroll along either of our two full-service, public marinas, you'll notice the shrimp, fishing and oyster boats at the docks, a living testament to our maritime heritage. In our restaurants, you'll be surrounded by the aromas of our local seafood being prepared fresh off the boats.

As the Gateway to the Gulf, Panama City is a four-season destination with multiple historic neighborhoods and retail corridors. Each offering a diverse and eclectic mix of live local music, progressively creative visual and performing arts communities, boutiques with everything for the fashionista to the antique connoisseur and year-round events and festivals that showcase all the things we affectionately refer to as uniquely PC.

Water & Great Outdoors

Panama City's proximity to water and subtropical climate encourage year-round outdoor living with a wide variety of recreational activities. A quick charter boat cruise to the undeveloped Shell Island guarantees a carefree day of exploring the uninhabited barrier island's powdery white sand, snorkeling for shells and sand dollars in the crystal clear waters, dolphin spotting with the family, casting a few lines, or just relaxing at the water's edge. For the more experienced divers, Bay County Artificial Reef Association is dedicated to the creation and preservation of the many artificial reefs scattered about our coast, providing extraordinary clear-water SCUBA experiences.

Our spring fed fresh water Econfina Creek, along with our many brackish bayous, are perfect spots for kayaking, canoeing and stand-up paddleboarding. Diverse ecosystems, from maritime and upland pine forests to tidal marshes, support an abundance of native wildlife species that offer rare opportunities to observe the riches of our natural world. Bay Memorial Park, Joe Moody Harris Park, and the Florida State University – Panama City Campus parks are home to courses that provide disc golfers a variety of challenging play.

As the home of Bay County's only two full-service public-access marinas, Panama City is a haven for boaters and water sports enthusiasts. Our diverse fisheries provide an unbeatable range of in-shore, near-shore and off-shore fishing opportunities. Miles of coastline along St. Andrews Bay, tidal marshes and creeks, and easy access to the Gulf of Mexico attract an ever-expanding list of professional and amateur fishing tournaments. The natural depth of the St. Andrews Bay combined with the area's consistent winds make Panama City an ideal location for The St. Andrews Bay Yacht Club, host to the 2018 ISCA Masters World Championship and 2018 USSCA National Championship at Midwinters. These Sunfish sailing competitions are qualifying racers for the prestigious Pan American Games.

Surrounded by water on three sides, Panama City truly is a community where life sets sail.

Arts & Entertainment

Home to an eclectic mix of art and entertainment, Panama City is a progressively creative art city. With many finding inspiration in the simple, natural beauty of this city on the bay, there are countless visual and performing arts venues to immerse yourself in the local scene.

The Marina Civic Center hosts performing artists from around the world, as well as special events throughout the year. Seating just over 2,500 people, every seat is a good seat in this intimate venue. The Panama City Music Association and the Panama City POPS Orchestra both utilize the civic center as their primary venue bringing the excitement of classical and modern music, dance, opera and musical theatre to attract the interests of the widest possible audiences.

The vintage art deco Martin Theatre, built in 1936, was originally part of a chain of movie houses that has touted such special guest appearances as Clark Gable and cowboy great Bill Elliott. After a complete renovation in the early 1990s, the theatre expanded and reopened with a 1500-square-foot meeting space called the Green Room. In recent years, it has hosted a variety of classic films and live performances.

Across the street from the Martin Theatre is the Panama City Center for the Arts. Known for offering creative enrichment and visual experiences of fine art, sculpture, jewelry and ceramics, the Center for the Arts also hosts occasional live music and film events.

With an inexhaustible creative scene, Panama City offers a plethora of small, independent galleries hosting exhibits and providing immersive hands-on activities for art enthusiasts of all ages. As the sun sets across the City, the sounds of music rise from almost every corner, because in this city, music is a necessity. As part of the fabric of the community, local live music is an essential experience for guests.

Dining & Culinary Treats

Panama City's proximity to the Gulf of Mexico and deep history as a fishing village means seafood reigns supreme. But the infusion of cultures – from African American, to Mexican, to Creole – has also left an indelible stamp on the region's culinary traditions. From ultra-casual dockside seafood to upscale eateries, there is something to suit every palate and every budget.

Culinary tourism roots runs so deep in this community, it is part of the curriculum at the local college! The John Holley Dining Room is the cornerstone for Gulf Coast State College's Culinary Program. Each Fall and Spring, this classroom serves à la carte luncheon menus, banquet-style "Cuisines of the World" menus, and in the Spring a magnificent dinner featuring frequently changing menus that emphasize the classical French cuisine as was prepared during the lifetime of Escoffier.

With a local top-notch culinary program, the area has an abundance of talented chefs, restaurants, food tours, and cooking classes. Each chef brings a unique twist to our regionally sourced ingredients creating culinary works of art. The historic districts could easily claim their own distinctive restaurant row – filled with spots independently owned and operated, many with recipes passed down for generations.

To truly tour the local fare, book a charter fishing trip and bring your catch to one of the dockside restaurants that will prepare your Hook & Cook feast any way you'd like, or take a cruise along the Panama City Oyster Trail. With over a dozen Oyster stops, a traveler can experience local oysters served raw, baked, sautéed, fried, or grilled – because in this area – it's Oysters All Ways Always.

Festivals & Year-Round Events

With our laid-back vibe, friendly disposition and penchant for hospitality, we're always in the mood for a good time! From Mardi Gras and Oktoberfest, to music festivals, to sport fishing tournaments and sailing regattas, there is no shortage of events to participate in. Our philosophy is "the more the merrier," so please come join us and celebrate like a local in our paradise on the bay.

Visit DestinationPanamaCity.com for a comprehensive list of events

Historic St. Andrews Farmers Market

takes place every Saturday from 8AM – 1PM at the Smith Yacht Basin. This idealic pop-up market has been featured on a variety of HGTV episodes and is a favorite for those looking to take a piece of Panama City home. www.facebook.com/St.Andrews.Waterfront.Farmers.Market

The Governor Stone is a 140-year-old all wood schooner designated as a National Historic Landmark. It is located in Slip One at the St. Andrews Marina and offers free 1-2 hours sailing trips around St. Andrews Bay. Learn more about Second Saturday Sails at www.governorstone.org

Krewe of St. Andrews Mardi Gras offers two days of parades, music, festivals, and family fun! The perfect reason to visit Panama City!

2018 ISCA Masters World Championship Regatta – Sailors 40+ from around the world compete in a four day regatta for the title of 2018 Sunfish Masters World Champion. www.panamacityregatta.com

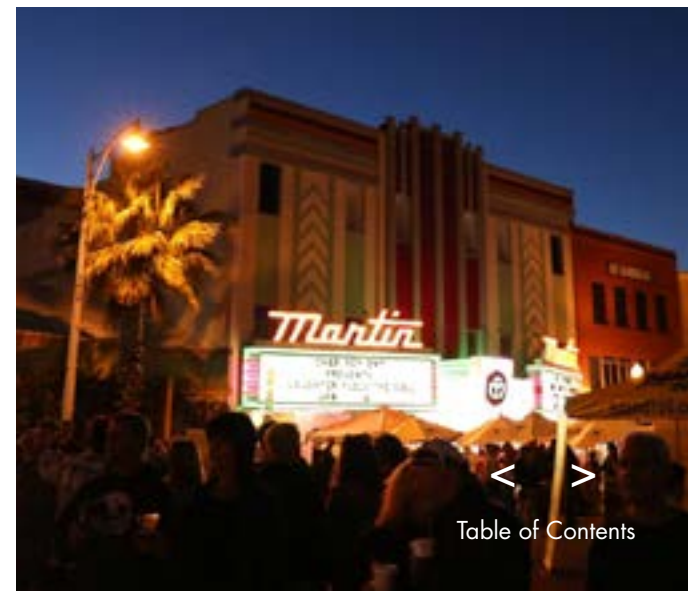

2018 USSCA National Championship at Midwinters Regatta – a qualifying Sunfish sailing regatta determining the three countries represented in the Sunfish Sailing class in the 2019 Pan America Games in Peru. www.panamacityregatta.com

Sock Burning & the Blessing of the Fleet is the day all locals look forward to! We say farewell to the chilly weather and burn our socks symbolizing the start of the warmer seasons and the blessing of safe travels for all the maritime vessels in St. Andrews Bay.

CreativeCon is an event celebrating creativity in all career paths; kind of like a comicon – but so much more!

Public Eye Soar is a free public projection art festival featuring projected art, animation and interactive art activities from artists around the globe!

One Harrison Food & Wine Festival features two evenings of live music, fireworks, and samplings of craft beer, wine, and food from local restaurants.

Meetings & Events

In addition to being an eclectic and diverse leisure destination, Panama City offers a wide range of distinctive venues to host innovative and collaborative meetings for groups of any size or occasion. Developed as a shipbuilding and industrial center during World War II, Panama City has evolved from a fishing village to a progressive city with centuries of history, a thriving arts community, a booming music scene and various attractions – all while retaining its charm, beauty, genuine hospitality and nostalgic maritime lifestyle. Offering accessibility and affordability with a variety of flexible meeting spaces and a myriad of lodging options, Panama City is ideal for everything from an intimate family reunion to a large corporate meeting. Hosting two major military installations nearby, it is also a welcoming place for military reunions. With a pleasant four-season subtropical climate blended with rich recreational and cultural activities and rich culinary offerings, numerous festivals and an array of offsite venues, anytime of year is a good time to host an event or meeting in Panama City.
